Giffnock, Glasgow

Following the introduction of market leading natural goods retailer 'Whole Foods' to the U.K, Creative Parking Solutions has set up operations in the Giffnock branch. The environmentally friendly aspect of ANPR combined with the organic nature of the store will ensure Giffnock as one of the more 'greener' towns in Scotland. Operations came under way as 'Whole Foods' sought an efficient method in managing the car park to maximise customer stay and illuminate commuter abuse.

Watford Junction

Usage at our Watford Junction station car park has almost doubled since operations were established. The ANPR system in place has dramatically reduced traffic congestion in the area (after initial removal of entrance barrier) resulting in the return of regular motorists day after day.

New ANPR Cameras

Creative Parking Solutions has now gone live with the latest in ANPR technology. These new hardware systems operate in the toughest climates and triple the accuracy of existing ANPR cameras on the market. Each camera alone can provide up to 80 still images of every vehicle entering and exiting a car park.

The upgrade counters the upcoming ban on clamping and provides a simple solution to out-dated confrontational car park management methods. This ANPR technology is the first of its kind on the market and has already demonstrated excellent accuracy and efficiency. 2012 Preparations

To cater for a foreseeable busy year ahead, Creative Parking Solutions has expanded the engineering fleet by over 20 vans. The extra vehicles will accommodate the growing service demand in Northern England and Scotland. Engineers can now be called to new and existing sites in a matter of hours to carry out operations.
